

Alena Novotná

I am a first-year Acting student at the Department of Alternative and Puppet Theatre.

I spent three weeks physically in school.

Even studying with a computer, via windows, has its positive side.

You stop and you look around at your environment.

You watch yourself – what you do – the impact it has – your footprint.

I would like to connect the sustainability theme with the individual Faculties' students.

Point it out, speak about it.

Organise discussions on this topic between Faculties, between teachers and students.

Connect the individual Faculties more, open up possibilities for cooperation between students and as part of commission exams.

I want to never stop asking and debating the options for studying art differently – in the situation that exists. To accept it – not fight it – and find a sustainable way out.
