

My name is Tereza Šafářová and I am the first-year doctoral student at DAMU's Department of Theory and Criticism where I got both my bachelor's and master's degrees. I decided to run for the Academic Senate because I would like to learn about the inner workings of the school where I have been for more than seven years from a different perspective. I would also like to offer and further develop my experience from studying where we were led towards a careful analysis of texts, discussion and critical insights during theory classes and editorial meetings of Hybris, the Department magazine that I led for one and a half years as its editor-in-chief. I communicate with people on a daily basis in my current theatre job – I am in charge of PR and the secretary in Divadlo Ungelt and I also teach at the Prague International Conservatory. I would like to develop this experience and offer it to the Academic Senate.
